PROGRAMS BY MONTANA DANCE COMPANY
ARE FRIDAY, SATURDAY AT UNIVERSITY

MISSOULA--

The Montana Dance Company, a student organization within the Dance Division of the University of Montana Department of Drama, will present concerts of student choreography Friday and Saturday at UM.

Dance programs, highlighted by a number of works, will be at 3 p.m. Friday, June 6, and 8 p.m. Saturday, June 7, in the Gallery of Visual Arts, Turner Hall. Admission to either performance is free, although donations will be accepted.

Rebecca Lynn Boyles, Missoula, a member of the dance company, said the material for the concert programs includes a variety of dances, from a nostalgic spoof on Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers to a tap dance.

Company talent extends from light entertainment to the more academic in pieces drawn from works composed by the UM music composition class as well as from works done independently by Montana Dance Company members.

"It has been a successful year for the dance company, and these final concerts of the year will be the last opportunities to see a little of what the company members have been sharing with the Missoula community all year," Boyles said.
